

The Struggling Student in a General-Education Setting: Pivot Points

Directions. The student competencies in the table below represent 'pivot points'—opportunities for educators to support the at-risk student to 'pivot' them toward school success. Number in descending order the 5 competencies that you believe pose the greatest challenge for students in your classroom or school to attain.

Ranking	Student Competency
	A. Basic Academic Skills. The student has sufficient mastery of basic academic skills (e.g., reading fluency) to complete classwork.
	B. Academic Survival Skills. The student possesses the academic survival skills (e.g., homework skills, time management, organization) necessary to manage their learning.
	C. Work Completion. The student independently completes in-class work and homework.
	D. Transitions. The student flexibly adapts to changing academic routines and behavioral expectations across activities and settings (e.g., content-area classes; specials).
	E. Attentional Focus. The student has a grade- or age-appropriate ability to focus attention in large and small groups and when working independently.
	F. Emotional Control. The student manages emotions across settings, responding appropriately to setbacks and frustrations.
	G. Peer Interactions. The student collaborates productively and has positive social interactions with peers.
	H. Self-Efficacy. The student possesses a positive view of their academic abilities, believing that increased effort paired with effective work practices will result in improved outcomes ('growth mindset').
	I. Self-Understanding. The student can articulate their relative patterns of strength and weakness in academic skills, general conduct, and social-emotional functioning.
	J. Self-Advocacy. The student advocates for their needs and negotiates effectively with adults.
